Chhoti Si Baat is an endearing, lovable, comedy about a young man who walks the rocky path of love because his heart is true but timid. Arun falls in love with Prabha whom he sees everyday at the bus stop on his way to work. Not having the courage or know how to express his love, all he can do is follow her to her office and her home. Just as he is wondering what to do next, along comes Nagesh, Prabha's brash young colleague who seems leagues ahead of Arun in his pursuit of Prabha. A now desperate Arun seeks the help of Colonel J.N.W. Singh who tackles the battle of love with the same meticulous planning and ruthless efficiency needed to win a military campaign. Arun returns to Bombay a new man ready to fact anything. Another heart-warming classic from Basu Chatterjee. "Chhoti Si Baat" has never faded in its sweet, funny magic.

VUTBW

Directed by:

Starring: Rekha, Shashi Kapoor, Shekhar Suman

Utsav is a classical tale of love and passion set against a background teeming with intrigue and political revolution which takes place during the hectic days of the Spring Festival. It is the story of Vasantsena (Rekha), a beautiful courtesan of Ujjain and Charudatt (Shekhar Suman), a handsome and impoverished Brahmin youth. Their relationship results in the polarisation of two contemporary life styles. Samsthanak (Shashi Kapoor) is in love with Vasantsena and spends a lot of time in her pursuit, but she doesn't respond. The plot thickens and comes to a climax, when Charudatt is accused of murder and sentenced to death. Rescue comes in the nick of time and he is saved. But there a choice between the two women in his life - his wife and Vasantsena, who both love him.

Directed by: Yash Chopra

Starring: Rajesh Khanna, Nanda

Rekha, a charming girl, is alone at home, planning to spend a comfortable evening all by herself. She overhears on the radio that a lunatic murderer has escaped from a mad-house. Little does she realise what the night has in store for her. Rekha is reduced to a prisoner in her own house. That particular night, those few hours, become so packed with so many startling and unexpected incidents, that it becomes for Rekha the experience of a life-time. That small house becomes a small world where a larger than life drama is enacted from midnight to dawn. "Ittefaq" as the title suggests is all about coincidence.

9.00 p.m.

EBSS

Directed by: Raj Khosla

Starring: Sunny Deol, Amrita Singh, Waheeda Rehman, Sharmila Tagore

Shahrukh Khan in one of his best performances is obsessed by Kiran (Juhi Chawla) and begins to fear he will lose her to Sunil (Sunny Deol). His obsession turns into a psychopathic mania! He calls, stalks and terrorizes Kiran: If I can't have you, nobody else will either, K-k-k-k-Kiran!!! And Shah Rukh Khan portrayed the chillingly obsessive lover with such finesse he had the masses rooting for him when he stabbed hero Sunny in a fight scene! Yes, Darr is equally the poignant story of a woman caught between one man's love and another man's obsession --she fears one, and fears for the other! Yash Chopra's magic comes alive with the starkest face of love, in the brilliant, mesmerizing Darr!
